PAUL KERES MEMORIAL TOURNAMENT

For the third year in a row the Paul Keres memorial was held at the Plaza 500 hotel; the playing conditions were generally good, although we had to contend with a nearby coming-of-age party on the Saturday night (including karaoke and dancing). The tournament, now in its 28th year, attracted a total of 101 players. The Open section was dominated by visitors: three-time Brazilian champion IM Herman C. van Riemsdijk and Oregon junior Morgan Griffiths both scored 5.5/7. This would have been enough to win the event last year, but unfortunately for them they were relegated to sharing second place by a white-hot Georgi Orlov, who put up a picket fence of seven wins to take first. This is the first time in the history of the Keres that anyone has won the Open section with a perfect score; this win also means that Orlov has won the Keres five times, thus tying with fellow IM John Donaldson for the most first prizes.

Congratulations Georgi! Local players Fanhao Meng and Laszlo Tegzes tied for fourth with 5.0/7, followed a half-point back by Yan Teplitsky, Jack Yoos, Gary Basanta, and Georgi Kostadinov.

Open section crosstable: open

Four players were tied for first going into the last round of the U2000 section, but when the smoke had cleared only two remained: Justin Hardy and Noam Davies shared first with 5.0/6. Peter Sum, rated 1521 and ranked 25th in the 28-player section, had the tournament of his life to score 4.5 and take third prize. In the U1600 section first prize was won by unrated Alejandro Diaz with 5.5, followed by Dan Chapman on 5 and Virgil Awasis on 4.5. The overall unrated prize was won by Nelson Balbutin, who scored 4 points in the Open section.

Crosstables: under2000 under1600

Many thanks are due to organizer Peter Stockhausen and perennial TDs Lynn Stringer, Lyle Craver and Mark Barnes; without them the Keres wouldn't happen.

Here are six games from the tournament. All of the games from the Open section are available for download at The Paul Keres Memorial Chess Tournament - History and Coming Events

Black has fought for a long time to draw the game (sacrificing the exchange to completely block the position) and now finally achieves his aim through perpetual check. Unfortunately for him, he is actually winning in the final position - it's mate in two!!
Moral: play the board, and don't let previous events colour your judgement.

NATIONAL CHESS CHALLENGE

While the Keres was taking place in Vancouver, twelve of B.C.'s finest juniors were representing their province in the National Chess Challenge finals, held this year in Montreal. This event is team-based, with each province sending a team comprised of one player from each grade. This year's BC team consisted of (in ascending grade order): Tanraj Sohal, Farley Cannon, Connor LaCouvee, Thomas Chow, Elliot Raymer, Evan Raymer, Lo-Ching Chow, Malcolm Bowles, Tanveer Sohal, Jason Lee, Lawrence Bau, and Gavin Atkinson. The team placed fourth in the competition with 55/108, behind Ontario (95), Quebec (76), and Manitoba (59). However, BC players Tanraj Sohal, Farley Cannon, Connor LaCouvee, and Jason Lee received trophies for placing 3rd overall in their respective grades. Also in the winners' circle was Elliot Raymer, who placed first in the Grade 6 and under Bughouse competition with partner Lucas Eshleman (Manitoba).

30 YEARS AGO . . . by Bruce Harper

As this is a full issue, today I leave with a not-so-simple problem composed by F.M. Simkovitsch:

White to play and draw. The first few moves are pretty easy, but then....

As usual, correct responses will be published in this bulletin, so here's your chance for 15 minutes of fame. The first correct response will receive a free renewal to their bulletin subscription!
