VANCOUVER JUNIOR GRAND PRIX # 8

A total of 45 players took part in the last Grand Prix event of this inaugural season, held as usual at the Vancouver Bridge Centre. Winners in the quads were: Jason Lee and the Davies brothers; Ben Daswani and Lane van Weerdhuizen; Tiffany Tang and Alexander Reid; Lesley Cheng and Jasenko Dzinovic; Thomas Chow, Jack Cheng and Kacper Petrykowski; Laura Harper and Gary Yip; and Louie Jiang, Kevin Au and Charlie Yan. In the swiss the greatly improved Aiden Brant-Briscall took first with 4.5/5; Vlad Gaciu came second with 4, and Neil Atkinson tied for third with Benjamin Huang.

For the Grand Prix, players received points for their results as well as a bonus based on the average rating of the Quad; only a player's six best results (of a possible eight) were included in the calculations. Gavin Atkinson had already won the Grand Prix after event #7, so his mediocre score in event 8 did not hurt him, but Jason Lee's excellent result on sunday catapulted him into second place overall. Despite being considerably lower rated than the other contenders, Lesley Cheng scored consistently well in the Grand Prix events through the year and deservedly took third. The top 15 players, along with prizes awarded, are shown below:

Atkinson, Gavin	26.4	$300
Lee, Jason	25.1	$250
Cheng, Lesley	23.9	$200
Goutor, Valentina	22.6	$150
Chow, Lo-Ching	22.5	$100
Davies, Lucas	22.1	$50
Davies, Noam	21.7	$50
Dzinovic, Jasenko	21.2	$50
Kostin, Andrey	21.1	$50
Reid, Alexander	20.8	$50
Daswani, Ben	19.1
Young, Bryan	18.5
Tang, Tiffany	18.4
Heppenstall, Lara	18.2
Yu, Danny	17.2

There will be a prize-giving ceremony on June 8th at the Year-end event - all juniors are invited to come out and enjoy this chess party!

JACK YOOS AT THE KERES MEMORIAL

Continuing with our Keres coverage from last issue, Jack Yoos has kindly provided us with detailed annotations to all his games - many thanks, Jack! Here are four of them, the remaining three will be in the next Bulletin:

Yoos,J - Niksic,J [C02] Keres mem 28th Vancouver (1.3), 16.05.2003

1.e4 e6 2.d4 d5 3.e5 c5 4.c3 Qb6 5.Nf3 Nc6 6.a3 c4 7.Nbd2 Na5 Although this is solid, it is also very passive. White's uncontested space advantage relegates black to reactive defense. Usually black is left with nothing to play for but blockading the two pawn breaks on b3 and f5. White sometimes loses these positions, but only because he overplays his position. [7...f6 is more lively:

8.Be2 fxe5 9.Nxe5 Nxe5 10.dxe5 Bc5 (10...Nh6?! 11.Nxc4!; 10...Qc7 11.0-0 Qxe5 12.Re1 with an attack) 11.0-0 Ne7 12.b4 cxb3 13.Nxb3 0-0; 7...Nge7? 8.Bxc4; 7...Bd7?! 8.b3!] 8.Be2 [8.g3; 8.h4!?] 8...Bd7 9.0-0 Ne7 10.Re1 Nec6!? [10...h6

11.Rb1 0-0-0 is the main line. 12.Qc2 intending the unraveling maneuver of Bd1, Nf1, Qe2. 12...g5?! I am throwing this into the notes to demonstrate the theme seen in the game. 13.Nf1 Ng6 14.h3 Qb3 15.Bd1 Qxc2 16.Bxc2 Nc6 17.Ng3 Nce7

18.Nh5 Bc6 19.Nh2 Nf5 20.Ng4 Yoos-Gentes, Manitoba ch 1997] 11.Rb1 [11.Qc2 Nb3 12.Nxb3 cxb3 (12...Qxb3 13.Qb1) 13.Qd3 Na5 and maybe white has something on the kingside, but I would think that black is fine.] 11...Nb3!? This interesting idea is new according to my database. By making some exchanges black hopes that it will be less appealing for white to blow open the light squares on the queenside. 12.Nf1 [12.Nxb3 Qxb3 13.Bf4 (13.Qd2 Bxa3 14.Bd1 Qb6 and white does not seem to have anything special for the pawn.) 13...Qxd1 14.Bxd1 Be7 15.Nd2

h5 and black seems okay, as white does not seem to have an appealing way to break open the position.] 12...Nxc1 This seems to make things a bit simpler for white. [12...Nca5 seems like a better try. 13.Qc2 Ba4 (13...Nxc1!?) 14.Bd1

Qb5 (14...Nc5 15.Qd2 Bxd1?? 16.dxc5) 15.Qe2 Nxc1 16.Rxc1 Bxd1 17.Rcxd1; white's pieces are untangled, but black still has a grip on things.] 13.Qxc1 Na5

14.Qf4 Be7 15.Ng3 h5 16.Nd2 g5+= Pushing the kingside pawns is a temptation for black, but my experience is that it is rarely good in these closed positions. Now white no longer has to worry about a blockade and the extended black pawns are bound to create square weaknesses. [16...g6 17.b3 A) 17...Nxb3 18.Bxc4!

(18.Nge4 Rc8!) 18...dxc4 19.Nxc4 Qa6 (19...Qb5 20.Nd2) 20.Nd6+ Bxd6 21.exd6 Qc4 22.Qf6+-; B) 17...cxb3 18.c4 Bxa3 19.Qf6 (19.cxd5 exd5 20.Bf3 Be6) 19...Rf8 20.cxd5 offers white good play with the black king being left in the center.]

17.Qe3 h4 [17...g4 is reasonable, but f4-f5 will always be an issue.] 18.Nh5 0-0-0

19.h3 Now black can do nothing about the f4 break. 19...Ba4 20.Rec1 Rhg8

21.Bg4 White is in no hurry to make the break. 21...Nb3 22.Nxb3 Bxb3 23.Qe2 Kb8

24.Rf1 Qc6 25.Kh1 Qa4 26.Rbc1 a5 27.Nf6 I wanted to make sure that the bishop did not come alive when I broke with f4. 27...Bxf6 28.exf6 Qd7 29.Bh5 b5 30.f4+- Unless black has something extraordinary here, he is busted as the kingside is falling apart. 30...Ka7 [30...gxf4 31.Qe5+] 31.Qe5 gxf4 32.Rxf4 Rg3 This looks funny, but black is trying to get his bishop into the game. The rook is going in to set a pick. 33.Rxh4 Rd3 34.Qg5 Qc7 35.Bf3 Kb6 36.Rh7 [36.Rg4 is similar.] 36...Rd7 37.Rg7 Qd6 38.Be2 [38.Bh5 also works.] 38...b4 39.axb4 axb4 40.Bxd3 cxd3 41.Qd2 Bc2 42.Rxc2 [42.cxb4 e5] 42...dxc2 43.Qxc2 Qf4 44.Rg4? 1.e4 d6 2.d4 g6 3.Nf3 Bg7 4.Nc3 c6 5.Be3 This is a very tough system for black to meet. 5...b5 6.Bd3 Qc7!?  I have played this idea from the white side many times. It is not that white is going to checkmate black here; rather the hope is that black gets tied down enough with defense that he becomes vulnerable to a quick shift of focus to another part of the board. 15...Ng8 16.Nf5+ Kh8 17.N3h4 Ndf6 [It is worth considering opening some lines first, but it is definitely more dangerous for black also. 17...exd4 18.cxd4 c4 19.Bc2 Ndf6] 18.Ng3 Rae8 19.dxc5 dxc5 20.Nhf5+= White is a little bit better, but black should be able to hold without significant problems. The problem for me was how do I try to win here against a much lower rated opponent. 20...Rd8 21.Nh6 Ne8 22.Nxg8 Kxg8 23.Nf5 f6 24.Qg3 Kh8
 25.Ne3

 cxb3 38.Bxb3 Nf4 39.Bd5 Bxd5 40.exd5 [40.Nxd5] 40...Ne2+ I had less than a minute left on my clock on this last move of the time control. I have to admit that I felt very macho making this decision in such circumstances. 41.Kf1 Nxc3 42.d6? [42.Qc6 Qxc6 43.dxc6 Ne4 44.Nd5 Nd6 45.Nb6 I have to admit that in my original calculations, I missed this idea of a repetition. (45.Ne7 Kf7) 45...Ne8 46.Nd5=] 42...Ne4 43.Qxa6
 [43.Qc7 Qxc7 44.dxc7 Nd6 45.Nd5 Nc8 46.Nb4 a5 47.Nc6
 Kf7 48.Nxa5 Ke7-/+] 43...Nxd6-/+ Since the queen and knight combination is a notorious attacking combo, it is natural that this will turn into an attacking fight.
 However, because of black's extra pawn white will be reluctant to trade queens and so he will in effect be fighting without the full use of one arm.
 44.g4 Ne4! Heading for f4. 45.Qa8 Ng5 46.Kg2 Ne6 47.Qe4 Nf4+?! [47...h4! The black king would be untouchable on g5, nestled cozily where he can take a nap until the fighting is done.] 48.Kg3 hxg4 49.hxg4 Qc8 50.Nd5?? [50.Ng2] 50...Qc6 0-1

Yoos,J - Milicevic,D [C38] Keres mem 28th Vancouver (3.3), 17.05.2003

1.e4 e5 Big surprise. I guess Drago did not feel like debating the Scandinavian this time.
 [1...d5 2.exd5 Nf6 3.d4 Nxd5 4.c4 Nb6 5.Nf3 g6 6.Nc3 Bg7 7.Be2 0-0 8.0-0 Nc6 9.d5
 Ne5 10.c5 Nbd7 11.Be3 Nxf3+ 12.Bxf3 Ne5 13.Be2 Drago and I have been debating this position since I moved to Vancouver. I think that white is just better here, but I am sure that Drago doesn't agree with me.] 2.f4
 exf4 3.Nf3 g5 I would guess that Drago was inspired by my game against Bobby Meng from the Kits FIDE RR several weeks ago, where Bobby drew me in this line [See Bulletin # 17]. 4.Bc4! Best [4.h4 g4 5.Ne5 All you have to do is look at what the GMs have been playing recently to see that this has not been working for white.] 4...Bg7!
 [4...g4 5.0-0 is just a very complicated draw. The problem is that black has to know a thousand times the amount that white does to be able to play the ensuing positions. As a result it is just recklessly dangerous to play this outside of correspondence chess.] 5.d4 [5.h4 If I am going to play a Philidor Gambit, I usually play this move order since it is more forcing.
 However, since Drago is not experienced in this line, I thought I would tempt him to play g4 for one more move.] 5...d6 Of course this position and the whole King's Gambit is probably unsound and lots of Classical players over the centuries have taken pleasure in saying so. However, as any King's Gambit player can tell you, this is not a very relevant point. The real question (as it is with many other openings) is whether white has good practical chances when faced with strong opposition and I would say the answer to this is most certainly yes. 6.h4 The Philidor Gambit. Since Drago is inexperienced in this line, I thought I would opt for the sharper stuff. [6.g3 g3 being the Hanstein Gambit is the main alternative and is probably more stable than the Philidor. In my opinion it is best to play it right away, since Bh3 does not have the same impact and white retains the possibilities of Nc3 and/or 0-0-0.] 6...h6 7.c3 c6

[7...Nc6 is more usual. 8.0-0 Bg4 (8...Qe7; 8...Nf6) ] 8.0-0 White's idea in these positions is that black will have trouble developing in particular his kingside, because of the pressure on g5. If black rolls the kingside pawns forward, he most likely will lose one or more of them and white's darksquared bishop will come alive. So in the meantime, white can continue developing with an eye to assaulting the black king either in the center or on the queenside. 8...Nd7

9.a4 Nb6 [9...a5 I was expecting this instead. 10.b3!? intending Ba3 at some point.] 10.Bd3 Be6 11.Nbd2 g4 12.a5 Nd7 13.Ne1 This often looks scary for white, but it will be hard for black to succeed in a direct assault on white's king with just a queen and a pawn. [13.Nh2 f3 (13...g3 14.Nhf3 unclear xf4) 14.g3 and white's pieces are clumsy (14.gxf3 g3-/+).] 13...Qxh4 14.Rxf4 h5 [14...Ngf6

15.Nc4 Bf8 16.Ne3 Nh5 17.Nf5 Bxf5 18.Rxf5 Ng3 gets messy - 19.Rf4 Qh1+ 20.Kf2 Nh5 21.Qxg4 Nxf4 22.Bxf4 0-0-0 23.Nc2 f5 24.Qxf5 Qh4+ 25.Kg1 Be7 26.a6 b6 27.e5 Rhf8 28.Qe4 Nb8 (28...d5 29.Qg6 Nb8 30.Bf5+ Kc7 31.g3+-) 29.g3 with the idea of Ne3 and white has reasonable compensation. For example 29...Qh3 30.Ne3 d5 31.Qh7 Rxf4 32.Bf5+ Rxf5 33.Nxf5 Re8 34.Nxe7+ Rxe7 35.Qxe7 Qxg3+ 36.Kf1+-] 15.Nc4 Qe7 16.Ne3 Ngf6 17.N1c2 Bh6 18.Rf1 0-0-0 19.a6 b6 20.Nb4 Nb8 21.d5! xb6.

I think that white is clearly better now. 21...c5 Several people told me that they thought that this was a big mistake, but as you can see by the notes, it is probably the best move. [21...cxd5 22.exd5!? A) 22...Bxe3+ 23.Bxe3 Nxd5

24.Nxd5 Bxd5 25.Bxb6 Rd7 (25...axb6 26.Bf5+-) 26.Bf5 Be6 27.Bxe6 fxe6 (27...Qxe6 28.Bxa7) 28.Qd4 Re8 (28...e5 29.Qc4+) 29.Qc4+ Rc7 30.Bxc7 Qxc7 31.Qxc7+ Kxc7 32.Rf7+ Nd7 33.Rh7+-; B) 22...Bd7 23.Nc4 with the initiative Ne8 24.Nxb6+]

1.c4 It wasn't always the case that Yan and I would play such peaceful games. ENGLISH BAY FIDE (April 25-27) by Vas Sladek

This event was a personal project of sorts - I wanted to see if we could stage more FIDE events beyond the Keres and the BC Closed. My ultimate goal is to: 1) give BC chess players a chance to get their international ratings (I got my own modest rating thanks to the Keres Open!), 2) to give tournament directors norms towards their FIDE arbiter and International Organizer titles (event sponsors should, at least in theory, be more receptive when approached by titled International Organizers); and 3) broadcast the games live on the Internet using DGT technology with TOMA license purchased by Chess First! Enterprises.

Jack Yoos played well as usual and his participation was much appreciated. He received cash and a brand new copy of Fritz 8 for his efforts. Fanhao Meng ran into trouble in round five when he met Nigel Fullbrook, who saved his best for last (convincing Nigel to give up bridge for one weekend wasn't easy!). Brazilian Eduardo Moura was his usual steady self and should by now be well known in Vancouver. Dragoljub Milicevic received yet another gift when he drew against me in round five. Play the board kids! Coaches looking for a horrific example of when NOT to agree to a draw can contact me.

All players received one issue of ChessBase magazine. Thank you to SPEC: Society Promoting Environmental Conservation - Home for providing a great, quiet site for the event. Several more FIDE rated events are planned for the fall: some have already been posted. Interested players with published FIDE ratings and unrated ambitious players with CFC ratings over 2000 please e-mail Vas Sladek, chessfm@shaw.ca or call 604-787-4553.

Crosstable and photos: English Bay FIDE inv

30 YEARS AGO . . . by Bruce Harper

Players have had 30 years to work on the problem republished in the previous Bulletin, but to date no one has sent in a correct (or any) answer. Maybe this one will be easier:

White to play and draw. Another study by F.M. Simkovitsch.
