BCCF E-MAIL BULLETIN #54

With this issue the Bulletin enters its third year - my, how time has flown. My first "editorial" is still as valid now as it was two years ago:

This biweekly publication will offer news and reports of interest to chess players in British Columbia. I as editor will coordinate the proceedings, but much of the content is up to you: you are encouraged to submit news, reports, games, or other items you wish to share with your fellow players.

To subscribe, send me an e-mail (swright2@telus.net) or sign up via the BCCF (www.chess.bc.ca); if you no longer wish to receive this Bulletin, just let me know.

VICTORIA LABOUR DAY OPEN

This year's event, the traditional opening of a new chess season, attracted twenty-five players to the University of Victoria over the Labour Day weekend. Dan Scoones won the event with 5 out of a possible 6; it was assumed his main competition would come from Harry Moore, but Harry overpressed and lost against Ian Martinovsky in round 4 and then unfortunately had to withdraw due to a family crisis. Martinovsky placed second with 4.5, despite this being his first tournament for quite some time. Stephen Wright, H.G. Pitre, and Manfrei Aquino all scored 4/6; Wright took third overall, Pitre and Aquino split the U2000 prizes.

Louie Jiang won the top U1800 prize, while Christopher Fletcher, Cliff Jones, and Sam Churchill tied for the second prize. In the U1600 category top honours was taken by visitor Catherine Smith from Seattle; Elliot Raymer won the second U1600 prize, along with the prize for the biggest individual upset. The prize for largest cumulative upset went to Sam Churchill.

Greg Churchill organized the tournament, the first in the 2004/2005 Island Grand Prix; Lynn Stringer, apart from directing, also provided accomodation for several out-of-town players in her home - thanks Lynn! The next tournament in the Grand Prix is the Jack Taylor Memorial at the end of November.

VANOUVER ROUND ROBINS by Eduardo Azmitia

Two round robins finished in Vancouver recently:

Class "A+" Round Robin (2)

Alfred Pechisker got the clear first after defeating all of his opponents. This was a special round robin that combined players from two sections that could not wait for the start of the next set of regular round robins. The last game was played on September 6, 2004.

U1600 Double Round Robin (1)

Alexandra Botez, the current Canadian Youth Champion (girls under 10 yearsold), accumulated the most points after winning all of her games. A very impressive performance by Alexandra. Crosstables and upcoming tournaments: http://www3.telus.net/chessvancouver/

1.e4 e6 2.d4 c5 Trying to get me out of my repertoire. Of course, as I don't play the Open Sicilian I didn't really want to go into one, especially against a Sicilian player, and I didn't want to go into a Morra Gambit either as I haven't played that in ages, so I decided on d5. While I don't really know much about that type of position either, I thought that it probably wasn't too common and he might not either. Unfortunately though, if I don't go into a normal opening like the Morra Gambit or Open Sicilian it seems that d5 is pretty much the only decent move, so he was probably at least somewhat prepared for it. 3.d5 exd5 4.exd5 Nf6 5.c4 [5.Nf3 d6 6.Nc3 Bg4 7.Be2 Na6 8.Bf4 Nc7 9.0–0 a6 10.a4 Be7 11.Re1 0–0 12.h3 Bh5 13.Nh4 Bxe2 14.Rxe2 Qd7 (14...Nfxd5? 15.Nxd5 Nxd5 16.Qxd5 Bxh4 17.Bxd6±) 15.Qd3 Ncxd5 (15...Rfe8 16.Rae1)

The only downside I can see is that my knight now can't go to g5 like it did in the game. Regardless, I'd say the two plans are fairly balanced though.] 7...0-0 8.Nf3 Re8 9.Be2 [9.Bd3 My main plan in this game was to put my bishops on the b1–h7 diagonal and the a1-h8 diagonal, so here I was scared of him playing Bf8+, when I'd have to either play Be3, which is counter-productive for my plan, or Ne2, where I looked at this variation: 9...Bf8+ 10.Ne2 Ne4 11.0-0 Bf5+= And I wasn't too happy with this, as now Black will put his bishop on g6, and one of the diagonals will be partially blocked off. I think I'm still slightly better, but it seems much worse than what happened in the game.] 9...Na6 [9...Bf5 10.Nh4 Bg6 11.Nxg6 hxg6 Trying to defend his king by blocking off one of the diagonals. I don't think this a very favourable plan for Black though as I don't have to go for a big attack on the kingside at the moment, I can go for other plans now that he's traded off his good bishop.] 10.0–0 Nc7 11.b3 a6 12.Qc2?! Unnecessarily giving Black counterplay on the gueenside, this causes a lot of problems later on. [12.a4 seems far better. There's no reason to allow Black to play b5 with so little resistance. In the game I was for some reason scared of him playing a5, followed by Na6-b4. In reality though, I don't really think that this is anything to worry about, it takes Black a ton of time and the knight, while slightly annoying, isn't actually as strong as it might appear. That plan for Black also gives me the b5 square, allowing me to put further pressure on the d6 pawn. This was one of the variations I thought was annoying: [15.Nd2 Nh5 16.Nce4 b4= and it will now take me at least three moves to get both my bishop and queen on the a1-h8 diagonal, and in the meantime Black can play things like Nf4 and then take on d3, so it'll take me even longer.] 15...Nh5 16.Ne4 Bf5 17.Qc3?! Perhaps a waste of time, after f6 it takes a few moves for the gueen to be doing anything, and Black can soon play b4 and my gueen will be forced to retreat anyways, wasting two tempos. [17.Nfd2 Nf4 18.Rfe1 f6 19.Ba1 Kq7 (19...g5 20.Nxf6+ Bxf6 21.Bxf5+-) 20.Re3+=] 17...f6 18.Nfd2 Nf4 19.Rfe1 b4 20.Qc2 Rf8 21.Bf1 g5 22.Ba1 Qe8 23.Qb2 Qd7 I wasn't totally sure what to do here, I thought my plan of attacking along the long diagonals seemed to have been a failure, and that Black was starting to get active on the kingside. I eventually decided to double my rooks and see what Black was planning on doing, and then figure out what to do, as I didn't see any immediate threats. After the game he said that he was initially planning on going to g6, but didn't like it because he thought it was bad for him if I play g4:

[23...Qg6 24.g4 Bxe4 25.Nxe4± The gueen is misplaced, Black needs the g6 square for his knight so it can go to e5. I am now also able to play Ng3-f5, where my knight will be extremely powerful, and can go for the plan of doubling my rooks at the same time.] 24.Re3 h6 25.Rbe1 Rbe8 26.f3 Qd8 27.Nf2 [27.g3 Ng6 (27...Nxh3+ 28.Bxh3 Bxh3 29.q4 h5 30.Nf2+-) 28.Bq2 Bc8 29.Nf2 I've now succeeded in temporarily shutting down Black's activity; because my pawn's now on q3 Black can no longer play Ne5 and block off the diagonal. However, it's not totally clear how I will continue to attack on the kingside, nor is it clear how Black will make progress either. 29...Rf7 30.a3 a5 31.axb4 axb4 32.Qc2 f5+=] 27...Ng6 28.Bd3 Bxd3 29.Nxd3 Rf7 30.Qc2 f5 31.Rf1?=+ At this point I was getting really low on time, and didn't know what to do, so I decided on this move, thinking that maybe I'd be able to play f4 at some point. # BCBASE

A new version of BCBASE will be made available shortly. Designed as a database of games either played in B.C. or played by B.C. players elsewhere, BCBASE has been added to considerably in the last year and now contains just over 10,000 games. The new version supercedes all previous issues, and also contains all the previously available supplements. Since ChessBase Light has a database limit of 8,000 games, BCBASE will be available in two formats:

As an archived ChessBase file (.cbv) containing all 10,000 games, and As two PGN files (BCHIST and BCMODERN), with the division occurring at the passing of Dr. Macskasy (early 1990).

CHESS IN CUBA by Tom Robertson

I'm trying to get a small group of avid chess players to come to Cuba for a week of playing chess in Havana as well as discovering the countryside and culture. The tour program can be found at www.ottawachessclub.com or www.cuba1tours.com. The fam trip price is slightly lower than shown on the program, $1000 + Air. This will be the first of a series of Cuban chess programs planned for 2004/2005. Please pass this information on to local club members and hope to have you along. Thanks.

KOLTANOWSKI BLINDFOLD SIMULTANEOUS

[A frequent visitor to Vancouver in the period immediately after Word War 2 was the peripatetic blindfold expert George Koltanowski; here is a report on one such visit, which occurred on January 19, 1953.]

Without so much as even looking at a board, George Koltanowski took on 12 opponents here Monday night and was able to recall every move made with the 384 chess pieces. A world champion and master of the blindfold tournament, Mr. Koltanowski not only remembered each move his opponents made but was able to anticipate their game well in advance. He was quick to catch their mistakes. "I think that player will resign after the next two moves," he would quip to an appreciative audience which filled the Mayfair Room at Hotel Vancouver. "I don't think so," the player would retort, but in two moves the match was over.

Sitting on a stage with his back to the players and audience, George Koltanowski thinks with every muscle in his body. Most of his moves are called within seconds. He rarely takes more than two or three minutes. Each successive move on the 12 boards is called by a "teller." Several times during the exhibition the "teller" made the wrong call and was immediately corrected by the master.

After 2 1/2 hours of play, a quart of coffee and a package of cigarettes, Mr. Koltanowski conceded a draw to A.T. Harrison of New Westminster. Mrs. Marie Rosenbach, only woman in the match, resigned a half hour later. She was "one piece down and a little nervous." Mr. Koltanowski likes to start each exhibition with a "you could hear a pin drop" atmosphere, but after the first half hour doesn't care if the roof falls in. At 10 o'clock there was a short intermission. He asked the audience to refrain from moving any of the chess pieces or "it will make it difficult for me to put them back where they belong." And this is the man who forgets the bacon when he goes shopping for his wife.

Despite the fact he was up until 3 a.m. Monday working out a problem, he completed the tournament in 5 1/2 hours with nine wins and three draws. Anthony Tom and Maurice Pratt, the latter a former B.C. champion, were the other two to escape undefeated. Losers were J.M. Taylor, C.F. Millar, C.B. Easonwood, E.B. Nelson, C. Dumphries, Dr. A.C. Nash, E.C.P. Salt, H. Copleston, and Mrs. Rosenbach. [Jack Taylor and Charlie Millar were also former B.C. champions - ed.] Mr. Koltanowski will take on 10 opponents in a lightning blindfold match in Salon C Wednesday at 8. He will also entertain the audience with anecdotes of the Olympic matches at Helsinki where he played on the U.S. team. [Vancouver Province, 20 January 1953]
